Local Airport: Portland International (PDX)

Housing & Society: Meet the Editors in Portland!

Are you curious about what happens when an article is submitted to Housing & Society? Ever wanted to be a reviewer but don't know how to do it? Are you thinking of an article idea but don't know where to submit it? Not quite sure what the "revise and resubmit" you received really means? Wondering what to do if the reviewers' comments contradict one another? Check out the Roundtable Session with Housing & Society editors Becky Yust, Marilyn Bruin & Christine Cook.

Message from the President - Ann Ziebarth

Hello HERA members!

By now you should have received the preliminary program for our 44th Annual Conference At Home in the World. I can't wait to attend and I'm looking forward to seeing each and every one of you in Portland. Check out the information on conference highlights in this newsletter. There are informative pre-conference sessions planned as well as wonderful opportunities after the conference to explore more of Portland and the Oregon coast.

I especially want to invite you to the pre-conference workshop on our theme of global housing. We'll have a chance to talk about integrating more international perspectives in our teaching and research work. As the session organizer I'll have some suggestions and resources for us to consider and I'm looking forward to a lively discussion and lots of new ideas from everyone who attends. The workshop is free and you are all welcome.

This year we are honored to have two Tessie Agan scholarship students presenting their papers at the conference. Our awards luncheon will also honor members who have had provided distinguished service to our field and our organization.

For those of you who are actively involved in research, an Ethics Roundtable is scheduled as part of this year's conference. This is an opportunity to participate in a discussion of the ethical challenges of conducting housing research. We plan to touch on topics such as incorporating student research experiences in the classroom, participant confidentiality, the ethics of deciding who to interview, and how to appropriately protect your data. If your institution requires professional development certification of Responsible Conduct of Research as part of the Human Subjects Review requirements here's a great opportunity to meet that obligation.

If you are unable to attend this year's conference, be sure to plan for the 2011 Housing Education and Research Conference to be held in Baton Rouge, Louisiana! Watch the webpage for more information on this great professional development opportunity. On the subject of our webpage, I encourage you to check out some of the new features of our website. We have added a section on other conferences and events noting organizations, events and conferences that may be of interest to members. If you are a member of any of these organizations, please share HERA news with their networks as well. If we have neglected to include an organization that you would like to see listed here, please forward the information to Barb Allen at blallen@montana.edu. As we continue to update our web presence we welcome your suggestions for changes and improvements.

Thank you for being an active and important part of the Housing Education and Research Association. Our membership is on a calendar year. Please check your membership status to be sure you are currently paid up for the 2010 year. Now is a good time to put a note in your January calendar to remind yourself to renew your HERA membership for 2011. As we start the new academic year, I'd like to suggest that you invite your students and colleagues to become part of this valuable organization as well. I personally support one graduate student a year with a gift membership to HERA. It's a great way to introduce them to our organization and is a nice reward for all the hard work they do.

See you in Portland,

Ann Ziebarth, 2010 HERA President

Don't forget to renew your 2011 membership today! As a reminder, our dues have remained the same since 2002!! Use the online membership form: www.HousingEducators.org. For more information or to share membership ideas/comments, please contact membership committee chair

Dr. Debbie Phillips: Debbie@TheQuadrillion.com.

WELCOME NEW MEMBERS!

News from Headquarters: Mike Vogel, Executive Director

Greetings from HERA Headquarters - I am pleased to announce the following updates:

Housing and Society Journals are Now Online: For those of you who would like to utilize Journal archives, they are now posted on line going back to 1990.

Membership Update: As Debbie Phillips reminded you above, don't forget to renew your membership. Our current membership is down with 84 active and student members. We're missing about 40 renewals from the previous year - Please renew ASAP - Let's keep our membership STRONG!

Library Membership Update: As of October 1, we have 67 libraries that subscribe to the Housing and Society Journal. If your University does not subscribe, please encourage them to do so. The U.S. subscription rate is $130.00/year. The International subscription rate is $140.00/year.

News YOU Can Use

Policy Brief Template Available

The Ad Hoc Policy committee has provided a Policy Brief Template on the HERA website. Here's an example of one way you can link housing research to critical policy discussions in your own communities and states. Check out the template and the example at <http://www.housingeducators.org/MEMAREA/HERAMEMA.shtml>.

Silent Auction: Items Needed!!

A special feature of the 2010 Annual Conference will be a silent auction. Proceeds from the auction will benefit the scholarship fund to support students interested in attending future HERA conferences. Please consider donating a housing themed item such as book or piece of jewelry, or a wine/food related item that represents your state or university. Please email donation information to Ann Ziebarth (aziebart@unm.edu) in advance for use in the auction catalog.

Member Updates

Marjory Inman

"I am enjoying retirement. I still review manuscripts for HERA and consult for NKBA as a certified kitchen designer. I keep in close touch with the East Carolina University faculty and assist them whenever needed. I volunteer at the local historical society and write news articles for them as well as work in their gift shop. I write a travel article 4 times a year for our local paper. I enjoy golf, reading, gourmet cooking, genealogy, swimming, and boating. I am a member of the local women's club, friends of the library, retired teachers association, a book club, and the Red Hats. My husband and I have 12 grandchildren whom we see often in the summer."

Good to hear from you Marjory!!
